Exhibit A

Belle Haven Child Development Center Strengthening Family Engagement 2019-2020

I. Background

The Peninsula Conflict Resolution Center (PCRC) envisions a future where all members of society engage and collaborate to create a strong vibrant community. To accomplish this vision, PCRC partners with individuals, groups and institutions to empower people, build relationships, and reduce violence through collaborative processes. PCRC currently applies its core competencies of assisting with communication and problem solving, training, designing group processes, and neutral facilitation in a wide variety of situations.

PCRC's four focus areas for schools are: school climate, youth development, school/family partnerships, and organizational culture. While PCRC runs effective single focus programs, the most impactful partnerships take advantage of multiple areas to engage in whole school community development. PCRC highly values capacity building for long-term success and, whenever possible, designs coaching and consulting into our partnerships.

II. Context

Belle Haven Child Development Center (CDC) contacted the Peninsula Conflict Resolution Center (PCRC) in fall 2019 to assist the school with their Family Engagement program. The center had been working with Michelle Vilchez previously and had success, but needed someone to be onsite on a daily basis to connect with the parents and build relationships to ensure a more consistent attendance of Parent Workshops, school events as well as begin the process of re-establishing a parent group at their school that would be instrumental in school fundraising and other projects. Alejandro was unable to continue with the work because of personal constraints and referred PCRC to come on board to continue the work that he had started. PCRC had been in contact with the center for the last few months, and finally were able to meet with Carmen Lo who oversees the Child Development Centers in Menlo Park. She would like the work that was started to continue and in addition have an onsite Family Engagement Specialist on site that will be able to connect with parents. This proposal represents PCRC's best thinking of what is needed to meet the following goals:

Parents

- To increase frequency of parent involvement at the school site and the community
- To increase quality of parent involvement at the school and in the community
- To increase connections amongst parents in the school community
- To increase parent leaders and leadership opportunities
- To increase parents' comfort in presenting and collaborating with other parents

Dispute Resolution

Given the complexity and challenges with multi-party partnership, the following outlines a dispute resolution process that all parties agree to follow. The purpose of the resolution is to ease conflicting messages, focus on the mission of the work, and reinforce effective collaboration practices.

Dispute Resolution Process

Step 1: Direct Problem-Solving between Parties

When a PCRC or Belle Haven CDC staff member recognizes that a conflict exists, s/he should take steps to address the concern directly with the other person(s) involved and attempt to reach a mutually acceptable resolution. If the attempt is unsuccessful, the party proceeds with Step 2.

Step 2: Staff Member Problem-Solving Process with School

Staff members should bring all issues of concern to the attention of the school principal or district personnel for initial discussion and problem solving. As liaison for the school, the principal or district personnel should notify the PCRC Director of Children, Youth &

Exhibit A

Families of the existence of these issues of concern and steps being taken to resolve them. The school or district personnel will take a lead in resolving the situation.

Step 3: Involvement of Agency Directors

If the previous steps do not result in the resolution of concerns, staff members have the right to bring issues to their Agency supervisors or to the principal to be addressed and resolved.

At any time in this process, any party should feel free to request the involvement of a neutral third party to facilitate communication and problem solving. Belle Haven CDC and/or PCRC will provide staff members with information about how to access the services of a neutral third party.

Please Note: Accurate and timely communication between staff members and administrators is key to successful conflict management. Overall, the intent for this process is to encourage direct and immediate communication.
